The 2013-14 Student Publications class show off their different shirts as they pose for a photo. Each staff member had multiple spreads to complete for the fall, winter, and spring!

Ms. Gramenz, Kylee Pelton (12), Ashley Doran (12), and Katie Lewandowski (11) show off their school spirit by dressing up for "Superhero Day" during spirit week.

Nina Vasquez (11), Rilee Witt (12), Amanda Nippers (11), Haley Shepard (11), and Samantha Kopka (12) meet up to take a picture together while at Prom.

Jamie Molden (11) and Rilee Witt (12) snap a quick "selfie" during Prom. They became quick friends after being part of Yearbook.

Nina Vasquez (11) works to create all the baby ads for this year's book.

Posing for a picture after Lowell's Got Talent, the yearbook staff smiles excitedly on stage. The students put a lot of hard work into making the show a success.

Lowellian

Sophomores Paige Roadruck and Mackenzie Monos receive guidance from senior editors Kylee Pelton and Rilee Witt.

Some of the Student Publications students dress up for "Ugly Sweater Day" before winter break. This was a fun tradition for the yearbook staff every year.

Chase Gehrlich (12) shows off his "80's" look for Prom spirit week. Chase was only one of the two boys in yearbook this year.

Ms. Gramenz poses with Jacob Lang (12) and Jack White (12) who hosted "Lowell's Got Talent." Their humor, singing and dancing was a huge hit with the audience.

Sarah Kozinski (10) works on finding pictures for her choir spread during class.

Yearbook students work hard on their spring spreads to meet the deadline before school ends.

Dear Staff,

This year, we all branched together as former members and new students. Many changes had to be made from the previous years. The staff worked with new advisor, Ms Gramenz, and the returning students had to adapt to the new style of teaching. As editors we believe things were tough before they got easy, but overall this year was very successful. We would like to give a huge shout out to Ms. Gramenz for coming in as a first year yearbook advisor and doing an amazing job. We couldn't have done it without you.

Many people do not realize the incredible amount of time and effort it takes to build a school yearbook. All of you did an great job attending the events covered in your spreads, taking pictures, and getting the information you needed to write a successful copy. People who are not part of the staff wil never understand and appreciate all the hard work and talent it takes to build a yearbook.

As editors and staff members, I think it is incredibly important to thank Ms. Gramenz for pushing us in all of our advertisement sales. Her techniques allowed us to exceed our goals in business ads, baby ads, and yearbook sales. We are very proud of our new advisor Ms. Gramenz and would like to thank her for such a successful year. As seniors, will miss you all and the entire yerd staff next year! Yearbook has been an inspiration for us and we will never forget it. Good luck with next year's book.

Sincerely,
Editors Kylee and Rilee

This year's editors of Lowellian, Rilee Witt (12) and Kylee Pelton (12), pose for a picture. Their leadership and hard work was greatly appreciated by the entire staff.

What describes your freshmen year...

Unforgettable Tiring... Different

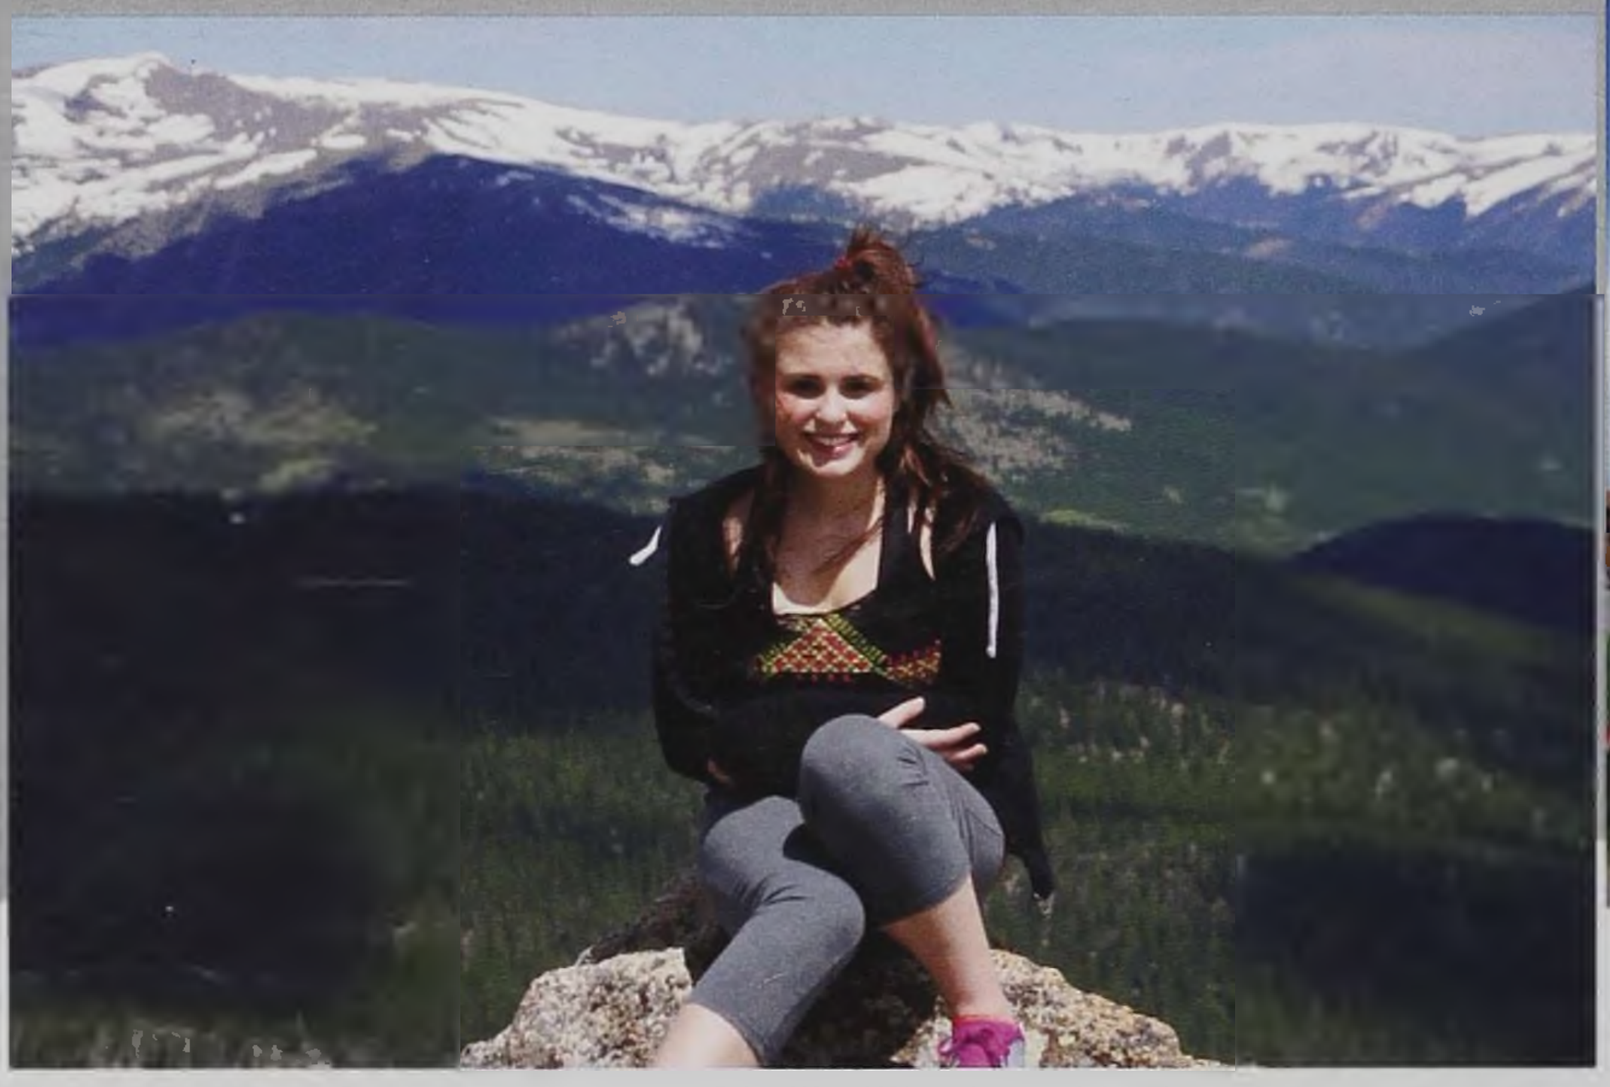
Summer 2K13

All that goes through student minds on the last day of school is that they can't wait for that three o'clock bell to ring because that means SUMMER! Summer might not be different from student to student. Most look forward to either hanging out with friends or not having to go to school for three months but that's not the case for a lot of students. Fall athletes have a different kind of summer, they spend almost 5 days a week and countless hours on school property for practices. What do fall athletes not look forward to? You can simply ask any of them, they don't look forward to the two weeks of two-a-days because that means one of two things, school is starting soon and you have two practices a day; one in the morning and one in the afternoon. Either way summer is summer and everyone looks forward to it.

"If you're not barefoot, you're overdressed."
Haily Bushore (11)

Cancun, Mexico who wouldn't want to go? That's the question Gabriella Harbrecht (11) is asking herself when she was offered a summer trip to Mexico. In this picture she is posing with some tribe members before she heads to dinner.

New York City is the place to go over summer, with warm air in the city. Anna Wildman (12) took a trip there with her mom pictured above in front of a skyline.



Climbing mountains in Colorado over the summer, Rilee Witt (12) took a quick break to take a picture on a rock. Rilee had a fun time taking this vacation with her family.

The Student Ambassador Program is a great opportunity for students to take part in. Blair Bruno (12) took part in the program and got the opportunity to travel to Italy and Spain this past summer.

"Summer is up to us." Miranda Moes (10)

A group of cheerleaders take a break to take a quick picture during one of their summer practices. Cheerleading is one of the many sports who spent summer preparing for their season.

"Smokey Mountains are beautiful in the summer", said Emily Rose (10) who took a trip there. She went with her family.

Fall sports picture day is one of the best because the it is really nice outside! Three cheerleaders show their Red Devil spirit in their picture.

Peer Mentors are at camp over the summer. Before a team activity Haily Bushore (11), Ryan Bottos (10), and Dana Biederman (11) take a picture.

Summer fun sports style with George Fields

What's summer like for you with having sports over the summer?

Summer isn't really too exciting because you don't really have one. Your sport takes that away but you're glad because the work you put into the summer will pay off in the end.

Summer practices are not all about running and getting better. There is fun involved too. George Fields (12) and some friends step aside to take a funny picture on Fall sports picture day.

"Every summer has a story." Sarah Kroll (9)

New York City is the place where you can do ANYTHING in the summer!

RED DEVIL PRIDE!

"Devil pride. RDP. Team team team"- A team motto that represents Lowell High School football. Shown by the Red Devils season this year, the phase of rebuilding is over. Red Devil football has returned to it's era of greatness. Going on a six game winning streak against some of the best teams in the region showed the full potential of the Red Devils season. Isaac James (10) and Gordon Sharkey (10) have shown their determination to lead the team to championship games in future years. With a majority of the the starting players graduating this year, the underclassman have really stepped up their game, transforming everyone on the team into star players. Red Devil Football has great potential in the years to come.

Defensive players Isaac James (10) and Kameron King (12) bring down the Trojan ball carrier. The Lowell defensive held back the Highland defense, ensuring that the win goes to the Red Devils.

With a fast run down the field, George Fields (12) makes a big play for the Red Devils. The boys supported breast cancer awareness during October, shown by the pink towel Fields wore.

A big tackle, made by defensive players Dan Garza (12), and Isaac James (10), pushes back the Trojans run. The efforts made by the Red Devil's defense helped the team to bring home the win against Highland.

Quarterback

What do you like and dislike about being a quarterback?

I like being the leader & being able to take charge. It's hard to cope with the pressure that comes with being one.

Being a quarterback can put a lot of stress on yourself during the game. How do you deal with that?

Just stay calm & play football.

Scoring a touchdown Robbie Smetana (10) and Darion Hornickel (10) are going for the extra point against the Munster Mustangs. Robbie and Darion are the kicker and the holder for the junior varsity team.

FRESHMEN

The Red Devils line up on the ball in one of the final plays of the game. The boys worked together as a team to try to hold off Crown Point.

The freshmen football team is always changing. With a completely new team every year, it's always a learning process. This season, the freshmen football team acquired an entire new coaching staff. Former varsity Red Devil football player T.J. Lukasik took the reins as head coach and taught the freshmen how to be varsity football players. The freshmen put up a fight during every game, showing their full potential. Though they don't play under the Friday night lights, the freshmen football team have many dedicated fans at every game. The Red Devils take pride in every game they play, and improve every day of the week. The freshmen show LHS what Red Devil Pride really is.

Getting to know Girls Golf

Next up, College! Jorden Zubay set some of her lowest rounds this season with an 80 and a 39. She plans on going to college in Florida to continue playing golf.

Moving on out! Francesca Rebesco came out for her fourth season and has showed major improvements. She plans to attend college in the fall.

Next stop...St. Joe's! Emma Littrell came out this year for the first time and received medals for three matches. She committed to St. Joe's college to play softball.

She's a freshman shooting like a senior! Maddie Binder shows promising scores for the future team. She set her all-time low at a 45 this past season.

Improving is my middle name! Brittney Arsenault came out this year for the first time ever and improved over 74 strokes. She plans on continuing next season.

From having no team to coming out and setting records the girls golf team drives in with 10-6 for their season. Jorden Zubay (12) set the lowest round of her career, a 39, at Curtis Creek. She also shot an 80 at their first invite of the season at Palmira. Emma Littrell (12) came out for her first season on the team and showed promising scores. Littrell won the title of medalist four times and Zubay six. Francesca Rebesco (12) shot the lowest of her career with a forty-eight and showed more improvement throughout the season. Freshman golf players Maddie Binder (9) and Brittney Arsenault (9) contributed to the teams record and helped pull out some much needed wins. The girls went 4-2 in conference and came in second all together. Zubay went to regionals for the second time this season and missed state by only a few strokes. Zubay and Littrell received first team all conference. Overall, the girls golf season was full of excitement and success.

Ending their season with the first winning record since Mr. Hudak has taken over being head coach, each team member contributed to having a successful season. The 2013 boys tennis team finished the season with a ten and four record. The boys had a great bond over the season, making it easier for success. The boys worked together which resulted in improvement, not in individuals, but as an entire team. Senior Steven Hill (12) states "Play within yourself to achieve goals for everyone." That's what they worked towards all year to become a stronger team mentally and physically. The team had three seniors that helped improve the skills of the underclassmen, also with two juniors Jayson Savich (11) and Ben Roesel (11) moving forward to Semi-State made this season unforgettable for all. The boys improved drastically and had a great season overall.

"It was good to see new faces come out to play that we haven't seen before", says Coach Chris Werling. Even though their record might not show it, the boys season was all about improvement. The team improved majorly from the beginning of the season. The boys were always working hard, whether it was at practice or during a game. Noah Newcomb (12) was the leading scorer and helped improve the boys season with a total of nine goals. Throughout the season, the boys spirits were always up and they were always looking at the positive side of things. All the boys looked forward to team meals as well, because they had the best food and played all kinds of sports from football to basketball. In the end, all the improvement helped the boys have a memorable and enjoyable season.

Just before competing, the state finalists get together one last time to smile for the camera to end their fall season.

With teamwork there comes ups and downs, which has brought the 2013 cheerleaders together with an unbreakable bond. Through thick and thin, each girl was determined to have a successful fall season. Morning practices, standing in the cold every Friday night, and waking up every Saturday morning, 25 girls never stopped giving 110 percent.

To achieve success, the 2013 cheerleading team spent six months practicing for their fall season. The Junior Varsity team competed at three competitions, and the Varsity team competed at four. Placing fifth at the preliminaries competition, the 2013 Varsity cheerleaders advanced to the State Finals Competition; making history yet again. At the State Finals, the team got fifth place, ending their fall season on a great note.

Together the girls finished what they started, having no regrets.

Academics

Fall

As the new school year rolls in, many new academic aspects are being introduced to Lowell. Some of the most prominent being New Tech and Project Based Learning. Some of you may be wondering, what exactly is New Tech? Most students know it involves no more summative and formative grades, but not much else. New Tech allows each student to have a more personalized grade, allowing each individual student to see what they need to improve on. According to New Tech teachers Mr. Gianotti and Mr. Hudak, the new learning platform is sure to help each student immensely while project based learning helps students develop better communication and teamwork skills. New Tech and Project Based Learning are sweeping over Lowell High School, you may even be enrolled in a New Tech classroom!

MARCHING BAND

It's not about competing and getting the gold. It's not about being the top band in the state. It's about being proud of what you've done. This year, the LMRD headed in a different direction with a different mindset of not competing and focusing on performing the show. Students said that this year was way better than years past. Even though the season ended too soon, the LMRD was proud of what they had accomplished. Jack Friedrich said, "This year was a lot better than years past and the camaraderie was super great!" Every week they got better and better as the season went on. It got hectic at times with changing bits and pieces to the show right before a competition., but the LMRD kept marching on.

Dear LMRD,

Each one of you brings something unique to the table. You are all important to this program and without you we would be nothing. Today everyone should be proud of our product, no matter what the score we get is. Take your doubts and leave them all behind because I have so much faith in all of you. I love being able to see all of the growth this program has encouraged from our members. Take all your passion and put it into every step you take. I know we're amazing! Leave it all on the field!

Choir fall

Many dedicated young men and women put all of their efforts into making up our choir groups at Lowell High School. Mrs. Rickaby quotes Friedrich Nietzsche " Without music, life would be a mistake." Premiere Distinction, Accents, Debs, and Mixed Choir put their heart into what they sing, and end up with a beautiful product. These choirs take time to go over their songs, perfect them, and put on a gorgeous concert four times a year. This is only the first of many amazing concerts for the 2013 school year. Mrs. Rickaby and the students involved in choir truly do work super hard. In the end all of the hard work pays off and they give the audience a truly amazing performance.

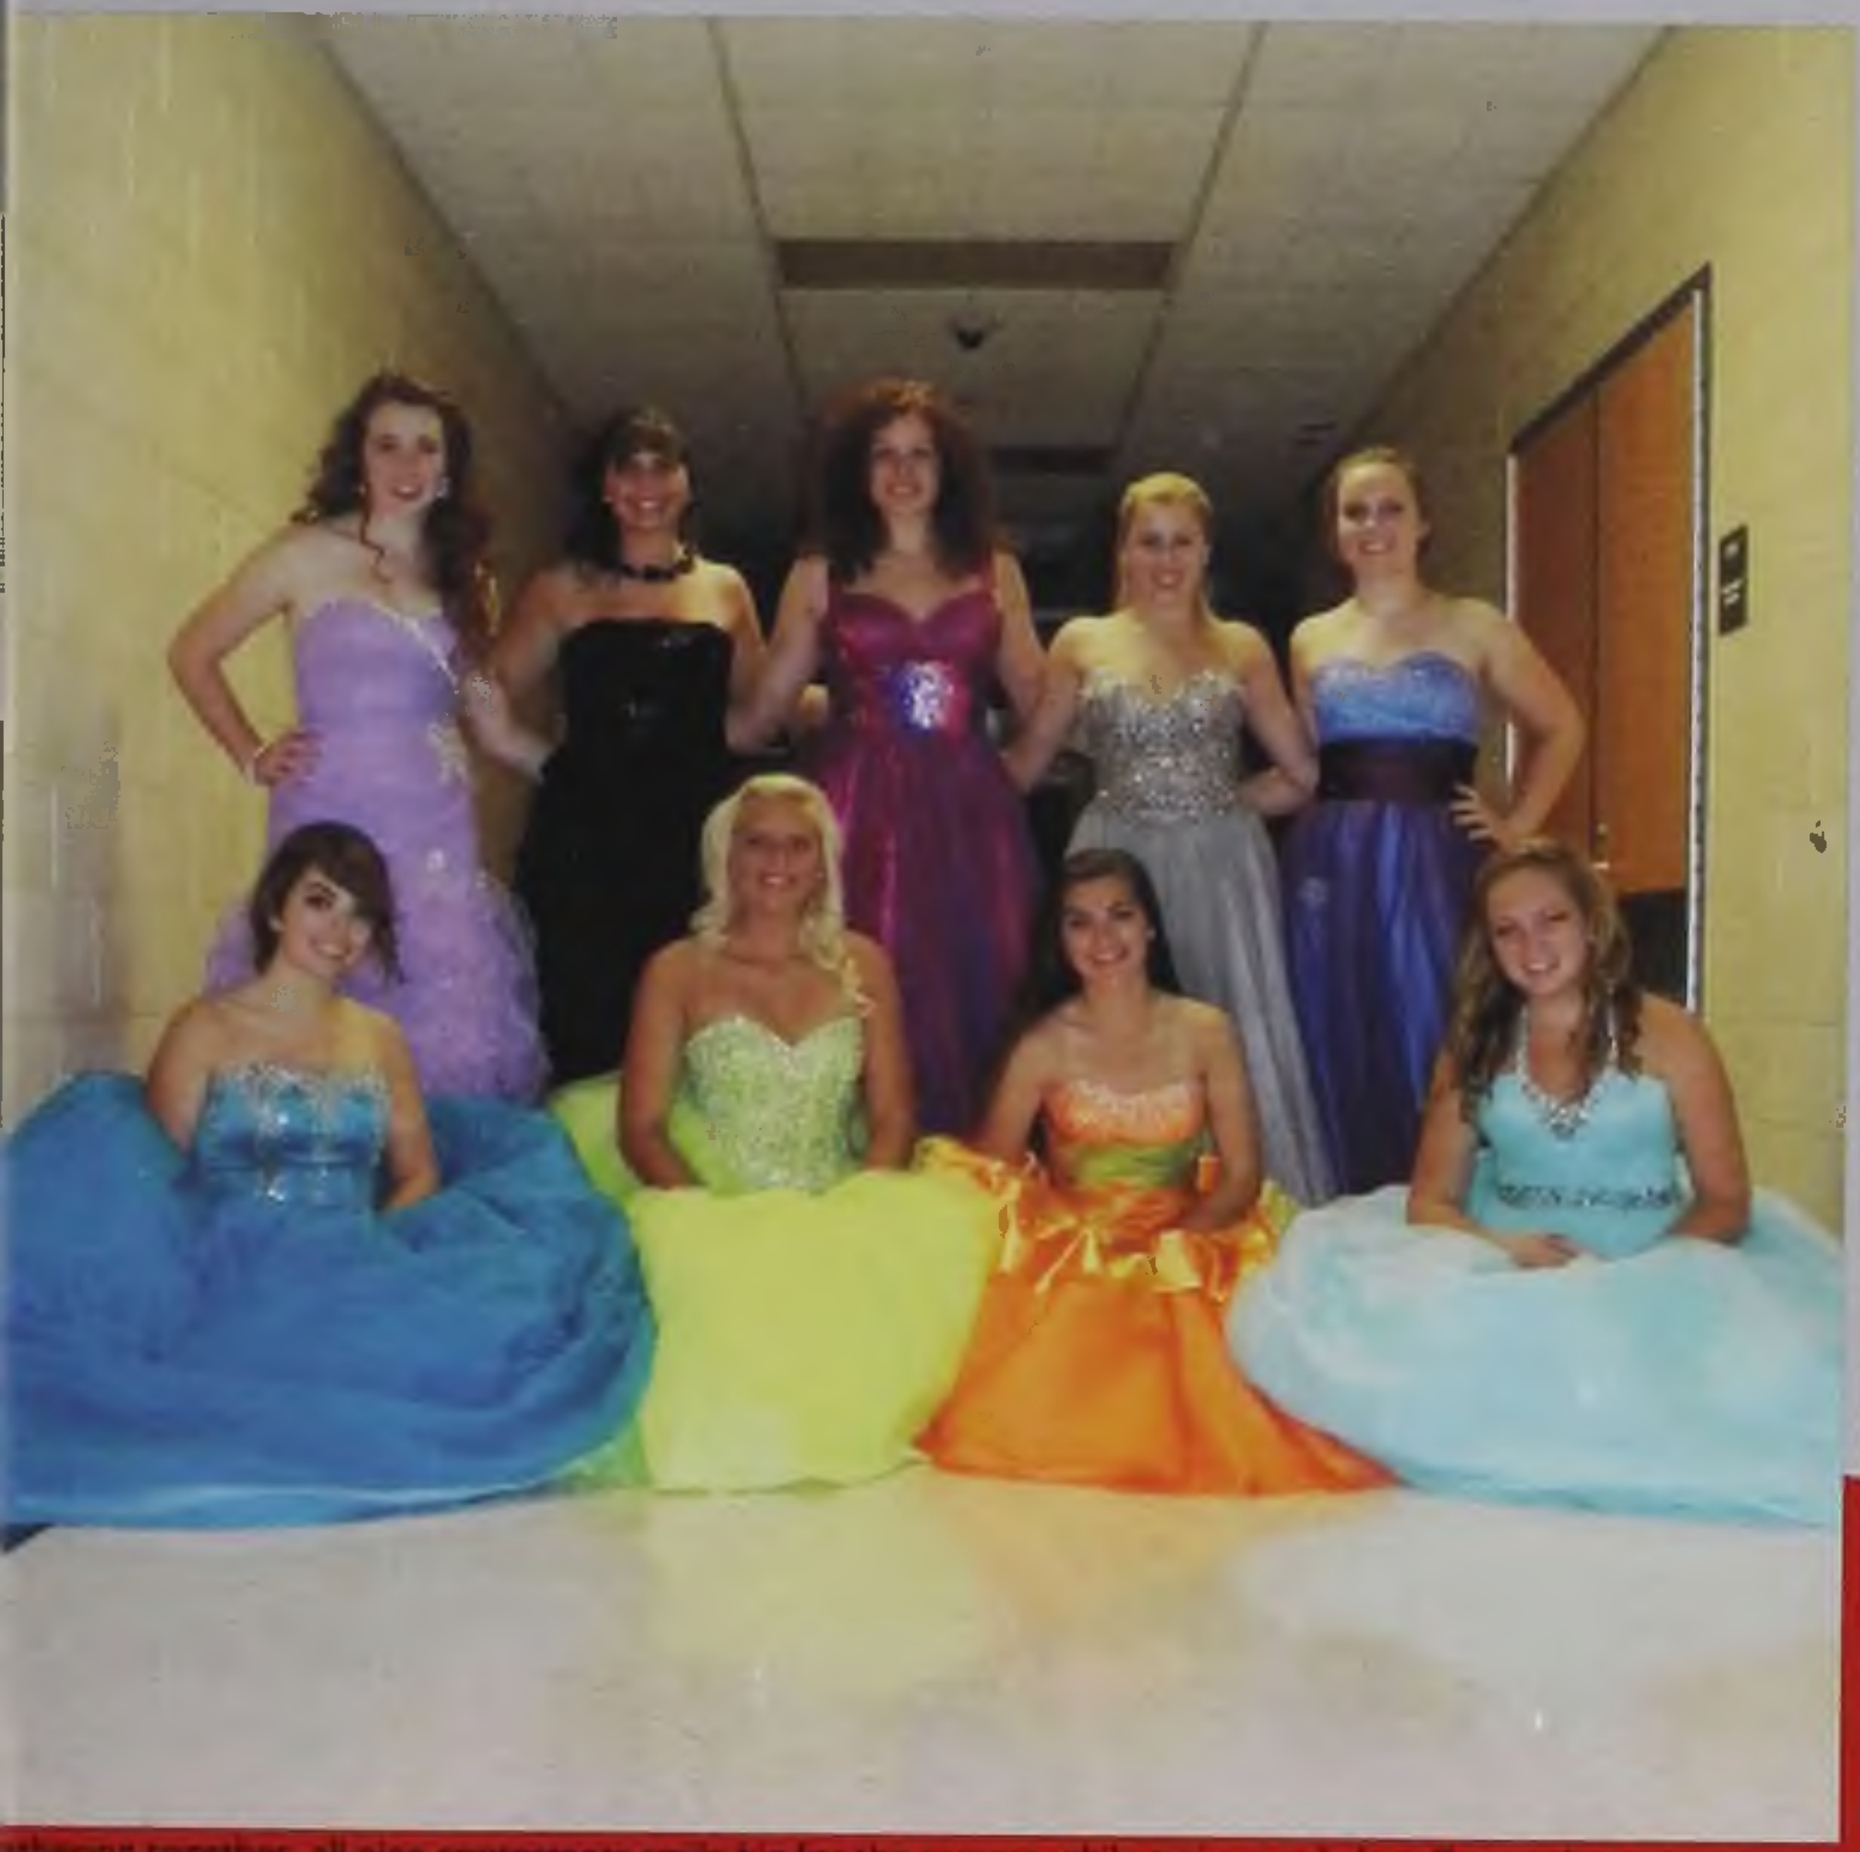
Charisma, gowns, and talent, that's what the night was all about. This year there were ine contestants in the senior class of distinguished young women. They came together nd decided on a beach theme, with their little sisters wearing pink to represent them. As they prepared with practices, rehearsals, and even bonding at Ms. Pat's house, the irls came out stronger than ever in this year's program. All their hard work and edication showed in all categories. The nine girls started off unfamiliar with eachother nd ended up becoming closer than they expected. They shared experiences they will ever forget. Overall, each and every contestant pushed their limits and succeeded reatly in every category. The girls stated, "We wouldn't have traded this group for any ther, thanks for all the memories."



Gathering together, all nine contestants smile big for the camera while trying to shake off some last minute nerves. They got ready to present themselves to the judges one last time before the winners were announced.

Spirit Week

this is how we do it

It's the week before homecoming. You know what that means. SPIRIT WEEK 2013! Spirit week at LHS was something to celebrate! The week kicked off with a "BAM" for Superhero Day. Next, zombies and tomb raiders explored the halls on Tuesday's Mobile App Day. On Wednesday, the beards came to school for Duck Dynasty Day. Then came Thursday, where everyone got colorful with Go Green/Go Pink Day. Finally, Lowell showed its true spirit and colors with RDP Day, honoring all the players at Friday's Homecoming football game. That wasn't the end though. Several students decided to honor the older, more traditional spirit week. This "Underground" spirit week divided the school. While they kept some of the same days, such as Superhero Day and RDP Day, they gave homage to the days of old by including Twin Day on Tuesday, Wacky Wednesday, and Pajama Day on Thursday. There was one more thing however, On Wednesday, many students and faculty members wore orange in loving support of LHS's own Senior, Kristie Qualizza, who was diagnosed with Leukemia. Spirit Week at LHS is always something to remember, and it certainly was in 2013.

Whether it's with a date, or a group of friends, we want to make your years in high school the best.

Dressing is a way of life. We all wake up in the morning and get ready. Some of us spend time picking out the "perfect outfit", others dress in what's comfortable. Either way, the students at Lowell High School have defined Red Devil Style with their personal touch. This fall, the trends were all about standing out in the crowd. Cargo jackets, flannels, and patterned pants were a favorite of the girls and pocket tees with khakis were popular items with the guys. Students walked the halls with Vans, combat boots, and flats on their feet. Overall, the trends this season were casual with an edge.

So whether or not you were part of the latest fashions, you were still part of the Red Devil Style and in the end, that's all that matters.

GIRLS VARSITY

Intense practices, late nights, and an extravagant amount of dedication is just the beginning of what describes Lady Red Devil basketball. With all five starting positions open, the teammates were in competition with each other since the summer practices began. Though they were constantly in competition with each other, the girls knew they had to do what was best for the team. Something special about this team, is how close they are. They truly are a family. Players such as Nicole Sharkey (11) and Amy Fraikin (12) became emerging leaders, and constantly encouraged every member of the team. Communication, encouragement, teamwork, coaching, and pure skill have led the team to many titles over the past couple of years. The Lady Red Devils fought all season for the NCC conference championship. After a win against Griffith, the girls became NCC champs for the third year in a row. They also advanced to the final round of sectionals once again. With an extra spark added, there is no doubt that Lady Red Devil basketball will be racking up championships left and right in the years to come.

One of the hardest things in life is saying goodbye to friends and family. This year, the boys said goodbye to five senior teammates. Wrestlers Joshua Bottos, Alexander Mavros, Kennith Hughes, Jacob Gross and Joseph Reed had been a part of the team for all of high-school. As seniors, they acted as mentors for the younger boys. For his final year, Alexander Mavros attended State for the first time. Alongside him was fellow senior Kennith Hughes as well as his brother Drew Hughes (10) and newcomer Colton Cummings (9). the comeback year

What is it like coming back after an injury?

It's like starting from scratch. I have to practice very hard just to get back to the place where I left off.

With being in cheerleading fall and winter season, gymnastics, and track, is it harder coming back after being injured, are you more cautious?

I am extremely cautious coming back from my back injury. I go down to the trainer everyday to get taped before practice and stem/ice/heat after practice.

How did you place this year?

I brought in scores for the team in most of my events including floor, beam, bars, and vault. I have made accomplishments in improving my scores on all events.

"Get back up and try again!" That was the motto this year's gymnastics team followed. It was mostly new faces throughout the team this year except for seniors Samantha Hammer, Malena Hernandez, and returning junior Skyler Lewis. With that being said, the girls had to have a positive attitude going into this season and that's exactly what their motto proved. Looking past the endless practices and multiple weather cancelations, the girls showed how much they wanted to improve this season and the proof was in their records!

With the accomplishments made during the fall, the girls didn't settle there. The cheerleaders didn't compete during the winter season, but that didn't hold the girls back. Taking a break from competition only resulted in individual success. As a whole, each girl helped the team grow stronger. As their coach always told them, "There's no going back. We can only go forward from here." The cheerleading program had an unbreakable bond that will never be forgotten. From daily practices to cheering on th sidelines, the girls weren't just a team, they were family.

"Cheerleading is the best thing that has happened to me!"

Bowling

Three Strikes, You're In

Lowell's Country Lanes was a battlefield this year for the LHS Bowling Team. Strikes were commonplace as Lowell drove to victory. It was a tough fight, though, as competition came from places as far away as Rensselaer and as close to home as Crown Point. Lowell made it into Regionals this year with a win-loss record of 20-13. Key players arose, with Caleb Elliott (12) leading the boys with a top average of 197.2, and Taylor Helgoth (11) leading the girls with a top average of 172.9. Matches were won and matches were lost, but several strangers on a team became close friends, and more importantly, a family.

With a little help from her teammate Cody Imes (11), Savannah Gaza (12) gives us a smile for the camera.

Most of the time, bowling is a serious sport. Other times, it helps to goof around a little, as the guys here demonstrated.

Hoping to finish with a spare, Taylor Helgoth (11) puts all she's got into this one final swing for victory.

"Bowling's all about concentration", stated Nicholas Marlett (11). He scored a strike afterwards.

A player is stabbed in the chest as a tone goes off, indicating that the other player has scored a point. Although it sounds like it, this scenario is no medieval tournament; this is fencing! A sport at LHS that has gone from a club to an official team. Mrs. Skurka and Mrs. McPheeters-Neal head this all-star team of blade masters who compete in state competitions to claim the title of "Best Fencer". The team is comprised of last year's veterans and this year's newcomers. All compete for the glory that is fencing!

Meet Sam Kouder!

What word best describes Fencing?
"Intense!"

What is you favorite Fencing memory?
"At invitationals, I had to play this kid who was all decked out in his own expensive gear. Everyone thought he was going to win, but I ended up beating him by like 7 points"

What song motivates you the most: "Eye of the Tiger" or "We Are The Champions"?
"'Eye of the Tiger', definitely"

What will you miss most about Fencing?
"All of my Fencing friends, because I probably won't see them after I graduate"

Fresh off of winning second place in Sectionals, Samuel Kouder (12) shows off his victory pose. He had A LOT to say in his interview!

ACADEMICS

Winter

Even though the cold winter winds blew all across Lowell, that didn't stop the students of LHS from having fun! From chemistry class, to preforming on stage, Lowell High School truly showed the meaning of Red Devil Pride! The 2013 Shakespeare Fest was one of LHS's best performances and the students couldn't agree more. The NHS (National Honors Society) inducted new members into their prestigious club. We can only expect great things from these newly formed members! The teachers also got in on the fun. Our very own Mr. Garling was voted favorite teacher of the 2013-2014 year by the students, but Mr. Charpentier, Mr. Gianotti, Mrs. Mikulich, and Mrs. Rickaby were very close runner ups. 2013 - 2014's winter academics continued to spread major RDP. What will Spring bring us next this school year?

Creativity is something always seen at LHS, especially from Mr. Werling's students. In an "accurate" recreation of a battle from one of history's most famous wars, these exceptional sophomores really know how to make things interesting.

In a communication exercise, students of Mrs. McPheeters-Neal get closer than ever before, learning things about each other along the way.

"Simply horrified" would explain this scene, as Mr. Charpentier reads "certain passages" from different banned books to his Senior Novels class.

"Shakespeare Fest" Is a Success

LHS does it again with its annual Shakespeare Fest. It truly showcased some of the best acting that Lowell has to offer; recreating scenes from Romeo and Juliet to even Hamlett. They portrayed these classic characters in new and hilarious ways, as interpreted here by Elizabeth Stanton (12) and Ty Cook (12). On the topic of Shakespeare Fest, Thomas Krick (12) said "I had a lot of fun. I was never sure if I was talking loud enought though!" It couldn't have been said any better! Don't be surprised if you see these high school performers as famous actors in the future.

Special Education

LIGHTS. CAMERA. ACTION. For the first time in Lowell High School's history, the students of Ms. Quigley's special needs class attended the first ever special needs prom. This event was coordinated by the peer mentor students and hosted over ten schools from the area. The theme of the prom was "Hollywood Night" and included a red carpet, DJ, and chocolate sundaes! For many of the students, their favorite part of the evening was all the different sweet treats. The prom was a huge success, and the traditions will continue.

Winter

Choir, it's not just about the music...it's about feeling it, letting it run through you, having an emotional connection. Choir was a statement, it was an interest that many people shared and enjoyed. These choirs have succeeded in many ways this year, from singing their hearts out in class, to bringing home gold at ISSMA. They are proud of how far they've come this year and excited about their future. It's been a great year and they are hopeful for many more achievements to come!

Learning their music, the Accents Choir sings loudly in harmony. The all-female choir spent a lot of time preparing for the winter concert.

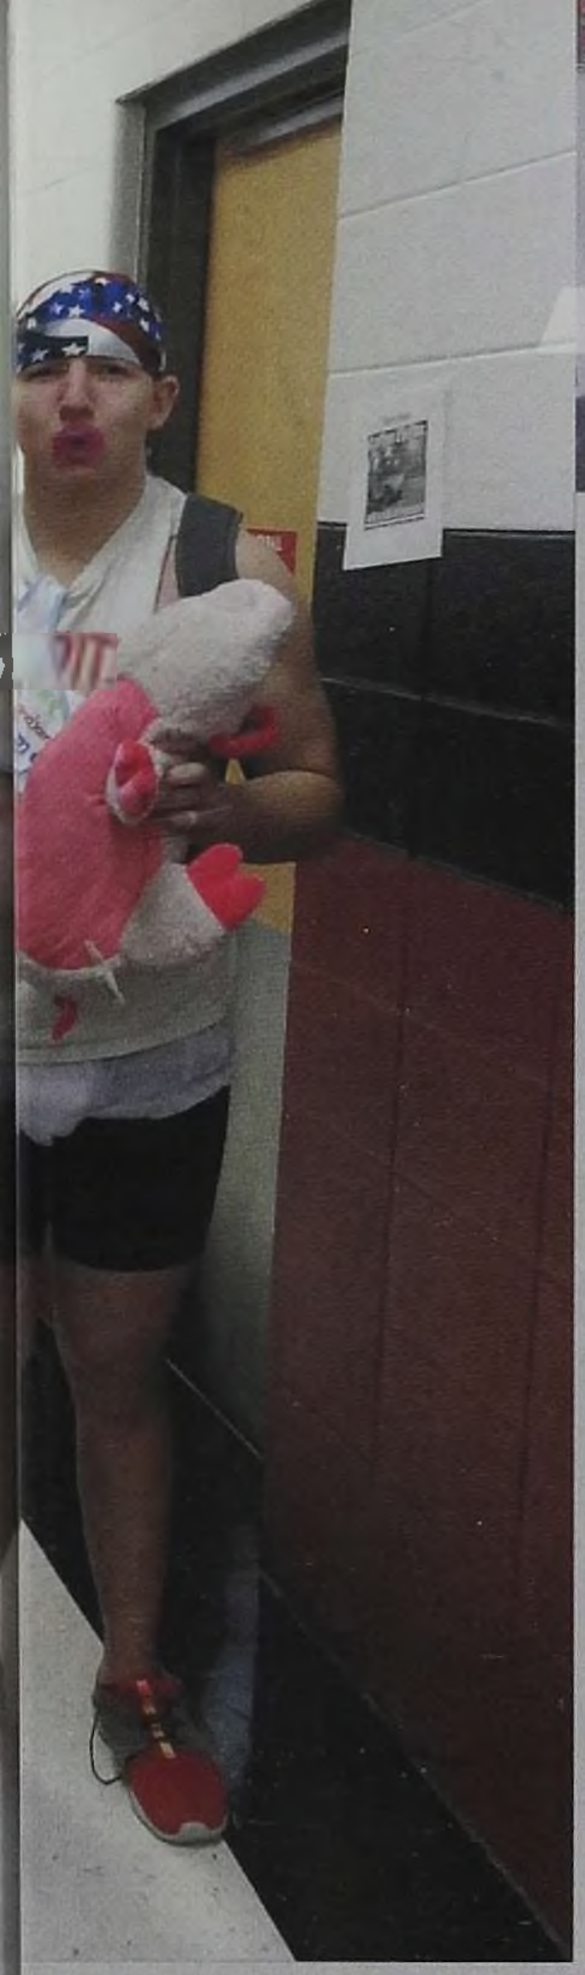
Dodgeball X

Pack the pit



This year it's Dodgeball X. The students, faculty and staff were off the walls as the tenth anniversary of LHS dodgeball got underway. Things got crazy! Twitter was trending with each and every dodgeball team name. Hash tags were being thrown in everywhere to help teams win the Twitter vote of "Which Team Will Win Dodgeball X." This year's competition had some of the most intense players ever, along with some seriously crazy costumes. Forty teams came out to compete for the title of "Dodgeball Champion" and other funny awards. The night raised an outstanding amount of money for the academic teams. No one will be able to top Dodgeball X.

RED DEVIL STYLE

Though the winter season brings lots of joy, it also means cold weather! We can all agree that the most important thing to do in the winter months is keep warm. For some of us, that meant simply staying comfy. For others, we managed to incorporate the latest trends while still keeping cozy! Students at LHS were fond of flannels, skater skirts, floral and stripes this season. The guys continued the trend of khaki pants and the girls still rocked their oversized sweaters. Some students mixed their individual style with the popular trends. Others didn't follow the trends at all and instead, created their own fashion. So when it comes to cold weather, the students at LHS proved that won't stop their Red Devil Style!

Winter Break

Let it snow, let it snow

The never ending Winter Break of 2013-2014. It was a cold one for all of us with lots of snow, ice, and bad roads! But even through that, it was also a great one. Q: If you were to sum up Winter Break 2013-2014 in one word, what would it be and why?

A: Cold! It was always so freezing outside that it was hard to go out and do anything!

A: Eventful! It snowed just about everyday and we were always in for a surprise. We didn't know what was going to happen next.

A: Great! All my family got together that I don't see very often and it was a good feeling.

Go Out & Just Play

As the 2014 baseball season approached, the boys were ready for a comeback year with many changes near. Things started off a little rough when temperatures were at an all time low, canceling many games at the start of the season. There was no stopping the varsity squad though. They worked hard throughout the season and had some awesome wins. The biggest achievement the team had was winning the conference game against the Hobart Brickies. The boys played tough and made amazing improvements. From then on out, the team had a five game winning streak and ended the regular season games with a win against Morton. The boys played a hard defense on their first sectional game but ended the season after round one. The seniors will truly be missed next year. Q & A with Darren Hopkins

What's your favorite position to play?
My favorite position to play would definitely be second base.

What's your favorite thing about playing baseball? My favorite thing is how intense the sport can be. I also like how at times it is an individual sport.

How do you feel after hitting a home run? I feel so good about myself and more confident about my hitting.

What's your favorite team meal?
My favorite was probably when our team went to Schoops for breakfast.

Is high school baseball as good as you thought it would be? Yes, high school baseball is really fun. I love being with all my friends and cheering them on.

Getting to Know Senior: Kristina Stefoski

Q: What was your favorite memory of the season?

A: We were practicing in the field house, and the team was talking about meditating and then it got really silent and Jessie Bullitt all the sudden says that she's googled how to meditate and it was so funny!

Q: Are you planning on playing tennis after high school?

A: I have gotten multiple scholarships, but I'm undecided where I'd like to go. If I don't play in college, I will continue to play club tennis.

Q: Does your team have a motto or quote?

A: Before our match, everyone on the team puts their hands in and we yell "Huah!"

Kristina Stefoski (12) aggressively strikes the ball in order to receive a point.

Sydney Workman (12), runs up the court to return the ball to the opposing side.

The girls huddle up before the match as Coach Deal walks away from giving the team helpful game strategies.

Doubles partners Meredith Sharkey (10) and Kristina Stefoski (12) wait anxiously for the return of the ball.

Amy Wallis (11) demonstrates a perfect follow through as she hits the ball over the net.

Brittany Eisensee (10) battles back during her match in order to get the win.

After serving the ball, Rachel Andrews (10) receives a point for all her hard work.

Jessica Bullitt (11) prepares to serve the ball over the net in their sectional match.

#StraightBusiness2014

"Straight business" was the motto of the Lady Red Devils tennis team this year and each match they did what they had to do to succeed. The team improved greatly from last year and at each match, the team gave it their all. The girls this year had a great bond with each other that they describe as being closer than ever. Varsity player Jessica Bullitt (11) adds, "We were all really close friends on and off the court. We never separated into older and younger cliques, we all stayed together cause we're all so close and have such a great time together." The team always strived for success and they achieved some great things this season.

Veronica Stefoski (10) looks up toward the ball so that she can accurately and forcefully serve the ball over the net.

Haley Fulk (9) begins the match with a powerful serve. Her follow through added the extra force so that she and her partner could receive the point.

Drive. Chip. Putt. This season, the boys golf team came out with five returning varsity players followed by a powerful junior varsity team. The boys said this season was one of the best they've had. They were all able to improve strokes by more than ten. This season they managed to beat one of their rivals, Hanover, by more than twenty strokes and go 2-4 in conference. Sectionals were held at their home course, Palmira, where varsity number one Jared Cottingham was sent on to regionals. They were held in Lafayette and Jared shot an 84. Cottingham said " it was a good way to end my career here at Lowell, but makes me more excited to play in college and continue my success." Overall, the boy's golf team had a building season and by far one of the most fun seasons they've ever had.

RDP in SATs

The Lowell Student Athletic Trainers are a group of kids who keep athletes going. They work in a professional manner to help resolve sports injuries under the supervision of Katie Rogers, who is a Certified Athletic Trainer. The SATs are somewhat of a forgotten team. They receive much appreciation from the coaches and faculty, but no one quite understands how much work they put in. They stay after school every day until all the athletes are gone from practices or games. They are constantly learning new therapy, stretching, taping, and examination techniques. They are expected to function well under pressure, because you never know what kind of injuries can occur. It's important for the SATs to have a very organized system, for if one thing is out of place, mass chaos will erupt. The Red Devil Student Athletic Trainers ensure that the Lowell athletes are healthy and happy.

FFA
Future Farmers of America

When it comes to FFA, its members take it VERY seriously, but what is FFA exactly? Yes, FFA stands for Future Farmers of America, but what does FFA REALLY stand for? According to senior Joseph Reed, "it's all about leadership and teaching how to lead others." If you ask Jasmine Donaldson (11), she'll say "It's a great program and Mr. Garling is a good mentor." When asked what FFA stands for, Whitney Cross (12) stated "We educate young people on what farming is and where food comes from." Senior Corey Smith told us "It promoted the growth of my character and I got to meet new people." However, all members of FFA agree that "You don't have to be a farmer to be in FFA, you only need to have some care for the Earth you live on." With all that said and done, FFA stands for a lot.

Peer Mentoring

Make a Difference

On the last day of the summer trip to DePauw, the red group celebrates the week by building a pyramid.

Erika Miley (11) sits with her group and talks to them about time management.

Making a difference is only a small part of being a peer mentor. This year, the peer mentor class has spent over fifty hours with the special needs class working on crafts or getting in a quick game of whiffle ball. They also put together a special needs prom for ten of our local schools. The mentors also ran sixteen groups with the freshmen, hitting on topics such as bullying, decision making, and special needs awareness. Kristina Stefoski (12) said "Being a mentor has taught me the value of family and helped to improve my communication skills." Next year, the mentors plan to continue on their road of making a difference here at LHS.

Although a lot of what the mentors do is outside of the classroom, on occasion they do take time in the classroom to plan their groups.

Celebrating the end of the summer trip to DePauw, all of the mentors take a group picture to remember the trip.

Just before the final competition, the blue group takes a picture throwing up the peace sign.

Spring Academics

Going out with a BANG

As the year comes to an end, classes celebrate all of their accomplishments over the past school year. Students showed off all the things they learned in their classes. Teachers helped students show off their new skills through festivals, fairs, presentations, shows and more. Some of the fun ways they did this was by celebrating Shakespeare's birthday, working on big projects for the entire school, and showing off their talents to other schools in the region. Every teacher was exited to celebrate the accompllishments they made with their students. As the year wrapped up, we not only remembered all the fun times, but we also remembered the times we spent together and the progress we made as a class. The memories we made here are for life.

Academic Teams

Going for Gold

Being a member of an academics team requires time, effort, and dedication. The members participated in spell bowl, super bowl and decathlon events, where they gave it their all and hoped for the best. "Decathlon is my nerdy way of having fun, meeting people and gaining knowledge", explained Josie Taylor (11). You wouldn't think so, but getting ready for an upcoming competition was quite easy for the Spell Bowl team. Everyone got together and made ridiculous songs to remember the words. In April, the Decathalon team traveled to Honalulu, Hawaii to compete in the Nationals competition. Lowell surprised every team in the U.S. with their talent and skills. Emma Turner (12) brought home a gold in science and made our school proud. The Super Bowl team also had a great season. Everyone was sad to see their fellow senior members leave. Overall, the Academics Teams had another amazing year.

Q & A From Ariana Ramon

Why did you join an academics team?

"I joined because they've benefited me in every aspect of my life. I've made life-long friends and learned so many life lessons and skills"

Spring Musical

Beauty and the Beast

Tale as old as time, song as old as rhyme, everyone knows the story of Disney's Beauty and The Beast. This year, the tale was brought to life by the Lowell High School Theater Department. Between costumes, sets, and musical numbers, everyone agrees that this is one of the biggest productions Lowell has ever put on - and one of the most successful! Though the students had a month less than usual to put on the show and tensions were running high, everything worked out perfectly in the end! According to the seniors, they couldn't imagine a better last show!

Taking a break from fighting over Gaston, The Silly Girls, Ashley Lantz (11), Kathy Kennellly (9), and Brannon Geist (11) stop for a picture after a performance.

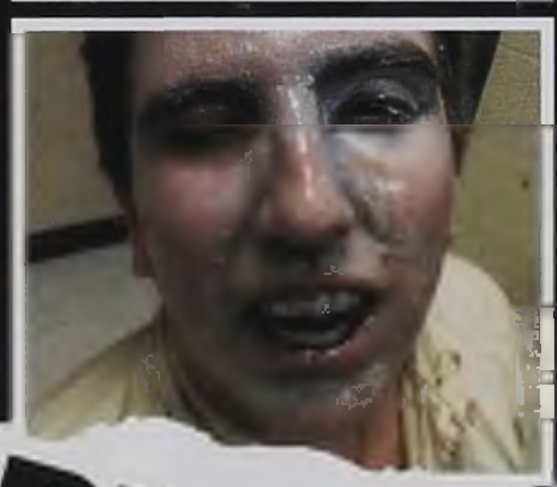
Next is time for makeup! Theater makeup is already pretty heavy, but doesn't compare to the amount that Jared had to wear each night.

After painting his face with brown, black, and white foundation, beast like eyebrows and a heavy coat of eyeliner helps complete his look!

Add a wig and tattered clothes, and Jared is fully transformed into the beast!



Lastly was time for clean up! Obviously the most attractive step. Coconut oil was Jared's best friend when it came to removing the beast makeup!

BAND

Spring

As the school year comes to an end, the band says their final goodbyes to the graduating class of 2014 during the band extravaganza weeks. During the last few weeks of school, Mr. Killion took the seniors to explore the many sights and arts of Chicago. While the seniors where away in the windy city, the winter guard added some final touches to their show before band extravaganza week. The band extravaganza week is packed full of last minute dress rehearsals, concerts, and a new addition a jazzy drums café. After all the end of the year activities, everyone said their final goodbyes at the end of the year band banquet, where students were awarded many awards to show their progress and success throughout the school year.

Winter Guard

Starting in January, the Lowell guard began working on their 2014 winter show. During the season, the guard welcomed 18 middle schoolers into the program. They put their skills to the test and taught all the newbies the basics of guard. This year, the guard chose to put their own twist on "Colors Of The Wind" from the Disney movie Pocahontas, while the middle schoolers performed to "Do You Want To Build A Snowman." Though there where many snow days that resulted in loss of stage time, the Lowell guard still kept spinning and pulled off three amazing performances.

Choir Spring

Showcasing their talents, the choirs put on a great last show of the year. This year has been a success from start to end, from performing fabulous shows, to getting the gold at ISSMA. The choirs performed some of the most recognizable songs from many famous plays and musicals, such as "Phantom Of The Opera," "Momma Mia," and "Wicked." A few students got to showcase their vocals with a solo. Every student put their very best effort into making this the best year yet.

VoTech Classes

Preparing for the future

Junior and senior year is the time when we start to figure out who we are. That's just what the students who took vocational classes did. This year, students found their niche in agriculture, anatomy, engineering, criminal justice and media type classes. Teachers offered real world opportunities such as a chance to earn a CPR certificate, side by side projects with local businesses and field trips to colleges, news studios and a peniteniary. Students enjoyed the experiences and knowledge they gained from vocational classes. Being involved in VoTech type classes greatly influenced many seniors' and juniors' career choices and prepared them for the future. The best part? They're an experience you won't forget.

Student Council

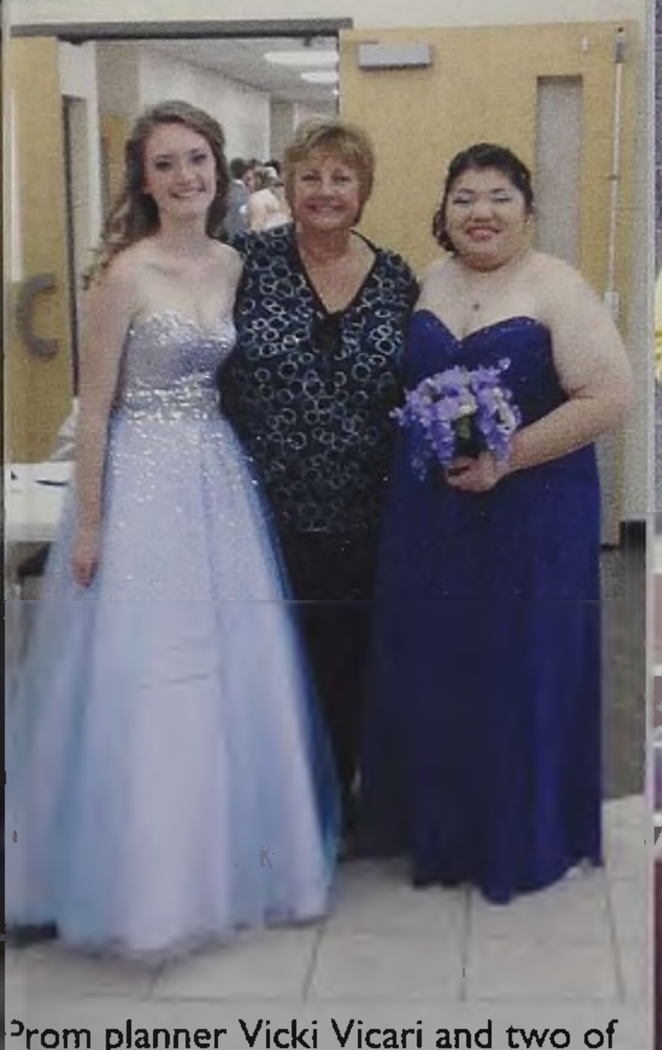
Be the Good in the World

"Be the good in the world" was the motto Student Council came up with this year to live by when doing things for the community and school. Student Council has done many different things to give back. Senior Student Council hosted a fundraiser to collect donations for the Lake County Humane Society. Junior Student Council sold candy and held the Elegant Dress Extravaganza to help pay for prom. Both were big successes and helped pay for prom. They also hosted a spirit week for juniors and seniors known as "Prom Spirit Week." Juniors had so much fun planning for "Take Me Anywhere" Prom 2014. Sophomore Student Council sold candy canes around the holidays to buy gifts for an Angel Tree. They also planned Winter Formal that was themed "Winter in the Windy City." They sold Fannie May candy bars to help raise money for it. Both senior and junior Student Council participated in the first ever event called Track or Treat that raised money for students with special needs. All in all, Student Council was successful at giving back to the school and community in one way or another.

Did you get your prom dress? On March 16th Junior student council, who hosted prom this year, had a dress drive where students could get a fresh dress for a low price. They had a good turn out with help from Kylee Pelton (12) and Jefferey Allen (12).

On the morning of Prom there is so much to do! Junior student council, with the help of some sophomore student council members, put favor boxes together for all students who attended prom.

Prepping the hall for Prom, Jordan Sanders (10) helps with the table settings. She created the Las Vegas table.



Prom planner Vicki Vicari and two of her junior student council students Nina Vasquez (11) and Mirenda Smith (11) take a moment to get a picture with her at Grand March. Grand March was held at the high school so parents and family could come see everyone all dressed up.

Track or Treat? Track or treat was something new the high school did this year for Halloween. Most sports teams and some clubs participated in this event. Kylee Pelton (12) and Nina Vasquez (11) were there for their grades student council.

PROM

Take Me Anywhere

One of the best days of your high school life...PROM! From finding the perfect dress and tux, making after prom plans, and getting nails, hair and makeup done, it was a very stressful day for prom-goers. The theme was "Take Me Anywhere." Students started their night at Grand March in the LHS Auditorium for pictures and made their way to the Halls of St. George for the dance. Students got to pick from seven locations: London, Paris, Nashville, China, Las Vegas, Italy and New York. Prom-goers not only picked their theme of choice, but they also decided who they sat with. The juniors and seniors had dinner and danced the night away with their dates and friends. Music ranged from hip-hop to country and pleased everyone who attended. In the end, with all the work involved, prom was great time and ended up as a night to remember.

Posing next to their dates, this group of junior girls snap a cute photo before heading to the hall for prom.

Destiney Bruce (12) and her date show off their ride to prom. They borrowed a Super Truck to arrive in style to the dance.

Callie Flowers (11), Samantha Ingebretsen (11), and their dates rent a party bus to take them to prom.

Friends Derek Mace (12) and Kate Swisher (12) stop for a picture as they wait for the dancing to begin.

These juniors gather under some weeping willows for a colorful pre-prom picture before their magical night.

Unforgettable Memories

"I'm like Ellen!"

Jacob Lang (12)

Competing to be the best judge ever, Jacob Lang (12) tries his own version of the Ellen DeGeneres Oscar selfie!

Taking a different approach to the "best judge ever" competition, Jack White (12) shows off his twerking skills!

Viewer's choice winner for the solo category, Gabrielle Harbrecht (11) confidently stands center stage.

Accompanied by Eain Goldsmith, Katey Lewis (12) puts on a beautiful performance.

Giving his all, Andrew Kirin (9) performs his rendition of "Jumper."

Lowell's Got Talent

Showing Off

Every year, talented students from every corner of the school come together at Lowell's Got Talent to show off what they're passionate about - and this year was no exception. Students performed their varying talents from singing to drumming in front of a full house! The night was hosted by seniors Jack White and Jacob Lang (who put on quite a show themselves - including a twerk off, a few song and dance numbers, and even impressions). According to the crowd, the hilarious hosts made the show unforgettable! Between raising money for the yearbook class and showcasing all of the talented students at LHS, the night was a complete success!

're-twerk off and dance battle, hosts Jack White (12) and Jacob Lang (12) argue who will be the best host with a musical number!

for the last time ever, Chase Skirmish (12) and Mr. Brandush perform as I.C.

Singing the crowd pleaser "Let it Go," Callie Flowers (11) gives an amazing performance.

Foreign Exchange students, Linn Hoelland (11), Valentina Zurloni (11), and Whitney Brüendler (11) perform The Lion King's "The Circle of Life" in Italian, Swiss German, English, and Norwegian.

Walking Across the Stage

Graduating is BITTERSWEET, but I'm ready for the next CHAPTER in my LIFE!

Samantha Hammer (12)

The years have moved by QUICK... but the memories will last FOREVER!!

Zachary Kirin (12)

Through SUCCESS and FAILURE, we can finally say "WE MADE IT!"

Mason Eatinger (12)

GRADUATION

Saying Goodbye to the Seniors

For four years everyone has waited for this moment. As underclassmen, we longed to be seniors, to walk down the stage and hear our names announced. But as the time neared, some of us realized that we were running out of time and the real world was right ahead of us. For some students, high school was full of amazing memories they would never forget, and for others, it was a learning experience which bettered them for the future. Graduation was a stepping stone for all of us. For the class of 2014, good luck to everyone with the paths they choose to follow in the future.

The easy part's OVER ... now here comes THE HARD PART!

Chase Gehrlich (12)

It's a shame that LHS is losing JARED COTTINGHAM, its top student in every possible way!
